

WILSON'S

Corner Eleventh
Storage Warehouse, and near 14th

RUGS.
We've included about every kind of Domestic Rug in the reductions this week. Cut the prices generously and put the finest, most complete Rug stock in town before you at figures you can't help but recognize as "under value." Japanese Rugs, those very serviceable Russian Rugs, Smyrna Rugs and Wiltons in the list. These are just a few:

Size	Yarn	Worth	For
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c
12x18 inches, Japanese	Wool	50c	25c

Endless variety of patterns and colorings.
Kilgus' Fun Art Square.
A new variety of patterns and colorings.

"I want to be the Jeweler who comes into your mind first."

The wise woman selects her Xmas gifts when stocks are complete. She has them reserved for her by making a small payment down. She shops here for Jewels.

C. H. DAVISON,
1105 F Street.

LEARNED MEN'S PAPERS

Surgeons Discuss the Humanity of Relieving Suffering Humans.

Dr. Tiffany's Annual Address Showed the Vast Proportions of the Association—New Arrivals.

The Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association convened for the second day's session at the Shoreham this morning.

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

Dr. Douglas' address was loudly applauded and a general discussion of the subject was engaged in by eminent physicians present.

Addresses were delivered and papers read by J. D. Davis, M. D., Birmingham, Ala.; J. T. Wilson, M. D., Sherman, Tex.; George W. Johnson, M. D., Richmond, Va.; W. F. Westmoreland, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.; Christian Fenger, M. D., Chicago, Ill.; Edmund Southern, M. D., New Orleans, La.

The annual address of the president was full of encouraging features. It showed the prosperous condition and the vast proportion the association has assumed.

After the session had been adjourned, the members repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptuous lunch. Business was resumed at 2:30 this afternoon, and the following delegates and papers were read:

Dr. L. M. Tiffany, of Baltimore, president, called the association to order, and announced that Dr. Richard Douglas, of Nashville, Tenn., would deliver an address on splenectomy, after which the regular program would be carried out.

DR. ROOKER

Satoli's Secretary Explains His Attitude in the Bonacum Case.

LETTERS WERE NOT FORGED

The Matter Has Never Been Officially Brought to the Attention of the Apostolic Delegate—The Trouble Has Long Before He Entered Upon His Present Duties.

The case of Bishop Bonacum, of Lincoln, Neb., is attracting the attention of the entire Catholic church in the United States. The affair has been in a particularly prosperous and harmonious condition of late, and the trouble is deeply deplored by all Catholics throughout the country.

The secretary of the papal delegation, Dr. Rooker, has been brought into the matter by the fact that he is the secretary of the apostolic delegate, and is therefore in a position to explain the attitude of the apostolic delegate in the Bonacum case.

"They began at least two years ago," said Dr. Rooker, "and were in full progress some months before my appointment to the office. Consequently, I know absolutely nothing of the beginning of the difficulties or the ethical merits of either bishop or priest."

DR. ROOKER'S STATEMENT.

"My connection with the affair is simply this: Some days ago a correspondent of the Boston Bee called to see me, and after stating at some length the case of Bishop Bonacum and the opposing element of his priesthood, said that it was currently reported in Lincoln that the bishop was about to return to the civil courts in order to eject Fathers Fitzgerald and Murphy from the church property. The correspondent added that Bishop Bonacum had said that in taking this step he had the support and approval of the apostolic delegate, and he then asked the question whether this statement was true or false."

"I replied," continued Dr. Rooker, "that it was neither true nor false, for the very good reason that Bishop Bonacum had not consulted Mr. Satoli on this matter, and therefore if he took it into the civil courts he did it on his own responsibility, without either the sanction or the disapproval of the apostolic delegate."

"The correspondent then wished to know if such course could be authoritatively taken by a bishop, and replied that it could not, and that the apostolic delegate had been pursuing him for some time, and that the conditions surrounding the delegation are well known and open to inspection, and my character has not suffered from these attacks. Everything must be conducted on business-like diplomatic principles. These troubles have not been conducted on this plan; therefore they cannot be settled by evasive answers until they come to us in proper shape."

Dr. Rooker said pleasantly that he scarcely thought this matter would interest the Washington public, and that more had been said on the subject than the occasion warranted.

One thing recently appeared in a Chicago paper that amused me immensely," said Dr. Rooker, laughing heartily.

SAVED BY HIS SECRETARY.

"This article described the difficulties of Mr. Satoli's position; how he was besieged by sight-seers and a curious public to general, particularly newspaper reporters, and it stated that he was saved much annoyance by his secretary, who is a big, burly American of the Yankee type, who is very intelligent and very well connected with them, and he usually treats the visitors so peremptorily that they do not stay a second visit."

This is a rather an unjust criticism, Dr. Rooker, as an American knows, is a particularly polished, genial gentleman, a scholar and church diplomat. He has been a newspaper correspondent and a writer for many popular sheets, and his courtesy to the members of the press is proverbial.

Speaking of Mr. Satoli's successor, he said that almost daily contradictory reports reached the legation, but nothing was yet known officially.

Attention was called to the Roman dispatch which appeared in last evening's Times, and states that Mr. Satoli will stay here until the next consistory, probably in a few days, and a half hour from present one. Dr. Rooker said that if this proved true, Mr. Satoli would certainly be very much grieved. He is delighted to be here, and he has many friends here, and he is looking forward to his departure with almost boyish eagerness.

Mr. Satoli's winter trip included a visit to New Orleans to attend the Mardi Gras festivities, and to reside at the winter residence of the Catholic schools. He will certainly keep this appointment if he remains in this country until February.

LAST WEEK'S RECORD.

Times—245,408—Circulation.

Star—191,258—Circulation.

OTHER SIDE OF THE CASE.

Mrs. Johnson Testifies That Mrs. Olmstead Was a Happy Wife.

The Olmstead trial was resumed this morning before Justice Bradley, with the prospect that the taking of evidence will consume the remainder of the week and possibly lap over into the week following.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many respects romantic.

Condition of the case yesterday took the case from the jury, but it was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

Mrs. Constance Beach Johnson was placed upon the witness stand this morning. Mrs. Johnson described the domestic life of Mr. and Mrs. Olmstead as one of the most harmonious, pleasant and happy, and the relations between them as husband and wife was most loving and in many